

Analysis, Reason, and Reflection

Student Well-Being in a Media-Saturated World

A workshop for elementary and secondary librarians and content teachers

8:30 am - 3:00 pm
Erie 1 BOCES, 355 Harlem
Rd, West Seneca, NY
14224

Monday April 29

Learn how to effectively and continually teach critical thinking and literacy skills across the curriculum in order to support the development of digital health and media literacy.

Explore ways to collaborate with your colleagues to actively engage all students in inquiry and reflection, key habits necessary for personal health and motivated learning in today's digital media world.

Librarian/subject area teacher teams are encouraged to attend!

Dr. Cyndy Scheibe

Tenured psychology professor, founder of Project Look Sharp, and author of The Teacher's Guide to Media Literacy

Chris Sperry

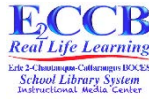

Award winning teacher with over 30 years of experience and author of multiple publications and curriculum kits

“Project Look Sharp's passion, generosity, and open-mindedness for this topic is unsurpassed! The practice of critically thinking about media and its role in our society will drive you to view the world in beautifully skeptical and unfailingly curious ways.”

Kristen "Mac" Machczynski,
Innovation Lead,
GEMS World Academy
